September 11 – December 22, 2017

Weight = 4 credit units

OT preferred - 60 hours

Course Description

OT 801 Occupational Therapy Theory, Process and Professional Practice

This course introduces students to the central construct of occupation and to both the consequences and determinants of occupation. We will explore the most prominent theoretical models and theorists of the past 100 year to develop an understanding of the relationship between occupation, health, and the factors that affect occupation.

Qualifications of TA

The ability to offer feedback to enable student improvement; the ability to document student performance and marks in a timely manner; familiar with current occupational therapy theory and models of practice OR willingness to attend lectures

Duties:

The TA will be responsible for grading student assignments, evaluating student presentations, and assisting with oral exam and overall course logistics.
